HOW GOVERNMENT COPES WITH MORAL CONDITIONS

What the United States government is doing by way of enforcing the single standard of morals in this country as a war emergency measure was instructively set forth in a lecture given Tuesday afternoon by Dr. Louise Leforte, of New York, at the headquarters of the local woman's committee, council of defense, in the Volunteer building.

and in its intensified form dates from the Mexican campaign, where the traf-fic in liquor and immoral women gained such inroads in the army and through which such diseases were gen-erally spread. After determining that in all so-called civilized countries there is one moral standard, tacitly recog-nized, for men and another for women, the government, she pointed out, wrote to 360 scientists and leading men for conings. All agreed that the single to 360 scientists and leading men for opinions. SOLDIERS TOO BUSY TO THINK OF VOTING

Absent Voter Law Complicated and Hence Khaki-Clad Boys Pass It Up.

"So far as I am concerned, I don't give a tinker's dam who is electeed as the governor, or any other of the state officials," said an officer at Camp Greenleaf, and this seemed to be the way the majority of the men and officers seem to look at it.

There are several reasons for this atthey are so busy carrying out their part of the army work that they do not have time to think of the coming elections or care who is elected. Another reason is that they never know when they are going to move and do not care to take the trouble of qualifying only to lose out because of the fact that they are moved great deal of trouble and "red tape" has to be gone through with in order to vote, and as a rule the average soldier or officer does not care enough about it to go through with the formalities neces-

A large number of ladies were present and the occasion was in charge of Mrs. D. P. Montague, vice-president for East Tennessee, and Mrs. Charles R. Hyde, acting local chairman.

The liquor traffic, Dr. Leforte affirmed, is responsible for the conditions which, if not corrected, will cost America the war. The spread of venereal disease is, she said, costing the country more men than shot and shell, and in its intensified form dates from the Mexican campaign, where the traftime expressed their doubt as to their being asked.

OIL IN GUTTER CATCHES AFIRE FROM CIGARETTES

Merchants Fight Stubborn Little Blaze With Extinguishers. Auto Tires Damaged.

A merchant whose place of business is on Market street between Tenth and Eleventh complains of the danger arising from oil and gasoline that collect near the curbing, where automobiles are parked for repairs. There are a number of repair shops and auto accessory stores in the block in question. The merchant states that gasoline and oil at the curb-ing caught fire Wednesday morning, presumably from a burning cigarette stub or lighted match that had been thrown down, and the business people got fire extinguishers to fight the fire. He says automobile tires were slightly damaged. He feels that something should be done to relieve the situation.

TO QUARANTINE WOMEN

State Says Law Broad Enough Defense Persists Social Dis. ease Not Included.

The question as the right to quaran tine women with veneral diseases came up before Judge S. D. McReynolds Wednesday afternoon on two habeas corpus proceedings, seeking the re-lease of Geneva Gossett and Louella and Bertha Marshall. The cases, it will be remembered, were heard the other day but a final hearing was nostponed until Attorney J. H. Early, who represented the women, could who represented the women, could supply a brief in affswer to the argument and the law in an opinion set out by Attorney General Frank M. Thompson. Gen. Thompson's insistance that the women with venereal diseases can be quarantined under section 2 of the acts governing the court of the section 2 of the acts governing the quarantine laws which reads that patients with small pox, scarlet fever, yellow fever and all other contagious diseases which have become a mediseases which have become a me-nace to public health, can be quaran-tined. Gen. Thompson insists that the phrase "all other contagious dis-eases which have become a nuisance to the public health" covers venereal diseases. Mr. Early insists that section 10 of the same acts sets out section 10 of the same acts sets out that cases of small pox, yellow fever, scarlet fever and other contagious dis-eases, with the exception of veneral diseases, can be quarantined, is the law, and under this section women with venereal diseases cannot be held. He further claims the government can no more quarantine patients with ven-ereal diseases than they can quaran-tine any one with an infectious sore toe or a bad cold.

The habeas corpus proceedings in the case of Luella Marshall and her daughter Bertha Marshall, charge that the women are strictly virtuous and have no venereal diseases. The women was have no veneral diseases. The wonten k becharge they were approached by a wife. Soldier who fooled them into taking Sufnexts called the wagon and had them sent to jail. The provost however, emphatically denies this and charges that the women both have venereal diseases and it can be proved. Judge McReynolds will give his decision sometime during the afternoon.

The provost guard sergeant who made the arrests, brought to The News office a written statement in which he reiterates that the women had gone to Warner Park with him and another soldier and that the older one had shown willingness to violate the law and the daughter had made a date with the soldier. He goes into details as to those incidents, and details as to those incidents, and claims also that they were examined by the army surgeons and had been sent to Erlanger hospital.

Several of the men gladly surrendered when they found out they were not going to be shot immediately, as they had evidently been led to believe. Practically all of the deserters were from very igno-rant families, and many of them could neither read nor write. MERCHANTS NOT PUSHING STAMPS, SAYS MATHIS

Chattanooga Shows Up Poorly, Compared to Other Cities, in W. S. S. Drive.

The fact that local merchants are not supporting the thrift stamp cam-paign which is being carried on among as they might was most emphatically brought out by the state retail mer-chanis' campaign director, Mr. Adolph Mathis, Wednesday morning, Mr. Mathis said that while evidence was occasionally given that earnest, sin-cere work is being done in some parts, most of the retail merchants who have with the sale of the stamps have turned in most disappointing reports. The best work is being done in the smaller towns, and as evidence of this the report of Conger Bros., of Smithville, was shown. They report $1,244 raised by the merchants of that place in a special drive carried on there on July 18. The repsend in good reports, and excellent results are expected from a big patriotic rally which is to be held there next Sunday." One of the most efficient workers in the state is J. R. Mr. Mathis says that he is forced to admit that less interest is being shown in the campaign by the merchants of this section than in any other part of the state. Last week only $3,569 was raised by local merchants. Some of the largest concerns on Market street are turning in only $1.50 to $2.00 a week, and it is said that many of the stores which possess the certificate issued by the government announcing that the holder sells thrift stamps do that the noter sens thrift stamps to not carry a supply of the stamps. Now that the board of trustees of Erlanger have decided not to accept women patients suffering with veneral diseases after Aug. 15, this appropriation is due. after Aug. 15, this appropriation is due to suffer a cut of $5,000 at the end of the budget year unless the matter is ad-

Commissioner H. D. Huffaker recom-mended to the city commission Tuesday afternoon that $5,000 be taken from the hospital if the trustees insist on carrying out their order regarding vene His idea was to take over the use it to maintain the women elsewhere. The suggestion was made that the Florence Crittenton home was the place to apply the money. While Mr. Huffaker appeared to be concerned over the situation, he felt that $5,000 would come in very handy at the Crittenton home.

Before taking further steps in connec-tion with the solution of the problem that confronts them. Commissioner Huffaker and Dr. C. P. Knight, head of the United States public health service here, will confer with the Erlanger trustees.
